ARTA Travel launched its website www.artatravel.com on March 12, 1996 and emailed an itinerary to a client the same day.

CLIENT CORNER

ARTA Travel Client Letters

I wanted to send you a note to let you know how much we appreciate the efforts of Joann Austin in your office to provide us nothing but the very best service.

We were dealing with a local travel agency in Pensacola when we met Joann (and Wally) on a cruise aboard the Readers' Choice Awards...

More than 300,000 travelers took part in Condé Nast Traveler's 29th annual Readers' Choice Awards survey-yet another new record-submitting millions of ratings and over 75,000 comments to help them create a list of winning favorites. They chose tiny private islands in the tropics, small culture rich cities in Europe, and intimate river cruises.

Celebrity Equinox.

We were immediately impressed with her warm, caring personality and extensive knowledge of various destinations and cruise lines.

We asked if she would work with us on our travel plans even though we were distant. She said sure and the rest is history.

She has provided great advice and planning assistance to us on cruises to the Baltic, Australia, South America, French Polynesia, China and many more.

Our original opinion has only been reinforced with every interaction we have had. She is a true gem and we so enjoy working with her.

Sincerely,

Carolyn and Bob

CORPORATE TRAVEL

American Airlines is trying to keep business travelers out of the cheap seats...

American Airlines has high hopes for its new strategy to compete with low-cost carriers by offering cheap, zero-frill fares. By offering bargain basement tickets, American (Nasdaq: AAL) can raise fares for business travelers unwilling to do without "extras" such as seat selection and the ability to stash items in overhead bins, the Fort Worth-based airline's executives said. Basic economy tickets will be cheaper, but they're non-refundable, they don't earn frequent flier miles, they don't allow an overhead bag, and they don't allow for seat selection.

GROUP TRAVEL

Treat your most Important Clients & Staff to a Once-in-a-Lifetime Experience at a Luxury Lodge...

Whether you're seeking a five-star hunting or fishing experience for your top producers or best clients, our outfitter's lodges provide the ideal setting for your group to unwind and build lasting relationships that will benefit your long-term business goals. Escaping the formalities of titles, expectations, and everyday stresses allows team members to relax, unwind and get to know each other. Our outfitter's comfortable, luxurious destinations make it much easier to connect meaningfully than attempting it in the confines of a boardroom or conference center. Only the great outdoors can allow this type of camaraderie among co-workers.
